Aloany Acad., 1853, Univ. of Rochester, 1855. Seven years' staff service with Boston and N. Y. journals (under William Cullen Bryant, 1858-1860; Journey to Red River and Beyond, 1859; N. Y. World, under Mr. Spalding, 1860-1862); then, 1862-1876, owner and editor N. Y. World, through War and Reconstruction periods. Chm'n Exec. Com. Nat. Dem. Com., 1864 Gave early publicity in U. S. to writings of Herbert Spencer (e. g.), on maintenance of justice as chief, if not sole, legitimate domestic function of Gov't wielding coercive power of whole body of citizens; in opposition to Peace-Democrats, held that, after Fort Sumter, war was unavoidable for resisting disruption of Union and subversion of its Constitution; opposed exorbitance of exec. power, usurpings of ungranted power as likewise its subversion; opposed warping Custom House taxation, touching all, into profit machines of a few; opposed Federal income taxing as direct taxes faithless to an original compromise, and false to actual terms of the Constitution; opposed greenbacks (as ever-injurious substitute for money), also doubling the cost of the war then waging, and repeating our own calamitous colonial experience which had caused the shaping of the Constitution to make such issues lawless; opposed negro suffrage, and impeachment of Pres. Johnson. Obstructing a partisan misuse for partisan advantage, of issues so momentous, he urged and supported procedures consummated in the Washington Treaty, Geneva Arbitration, Alabama Award, deeming explicit avowal of regret from the source over the seas of our greatest injury to be the best ending of old antagonisms and only beginning of subsequent peace. Began that assault against Tweed Ring which finally purged city gov't for a season and elected Samuel J. Tilden Gov. of N. Y.; wrote Syracuse, N. Y., Dem. State platform, 1874, and the St. Louis Nat. Dem. platform, 1876, upon which Mr. Tilden stood for Gov. of N. Y. and Presidency of U. S.; similar platform of 1884 upon which Mr. Cleveland stood for Presidency, and a pamphlet, 1878, disclosing that for the Electoral Comm'n law. Mr. Tilden was not responsible. Special envoy sent by Pres. Cleveland, 1885, to gov'ts of Great Britain, France, Germany, and after conferences with Prince Bismarck, with MM. Freycinet, Carnot, and with Cernuschi, the classic authority upon internat. bimetallism, and with Mr. Goschen, Lord Iddesleigh and Mr. Gladstone, ascertained and advised the President that resumption of free bimetallic coinage by any European power was conditioned sine qua non upon British coöperation, which neither Tory nor Liberal ministries were prepared for (Mr. Gladstone doubtless preferring even then the Indian mints' closure to continuing their free coinage of silver) and that our own U. S. Treasury purchases of silver should cease. Author: A Letter to Abraham Lincoln, 1864; the Presidential Counts, 1877; A Secret Chapter of Political History, 1878; Memoir of Alex G. Mercer, D.D., prefixed to his Bible Characters, 1885; and Notes of an Outlook on Life, collected from his MSS., 1899. Life mem. A. A. A. S., Am. Acad. Polit. and Social Science, Am. Camp Mooswa

FOR BOYS UNDER SIXTEEN — Nova Scotia

Last season two boys from St. Louis (10 and 12 years) attended Camp Mooswa. The mother writes: "Mr. S—— and I will go to Europe this Summer, taking our motor car, and we have decided to send our boys to you again. They prefer Mooswa to a European trip, so you see you have won their hearts."

Missouri is some distance from Nova Scotia. Our illustrated booklet will be of interest to parents making a careful selection of a suitable camp for their boys.

If you want to choose your first teacher of SINGING, or to make a change, because you do not notice decided progress in every lesson, go to

Madame C. de Rigaud

Telephone, Riverside 1152 — 2647 Broadway, New York

In any case let her give a frank and reliable opinion and advice regarding your voice.

MME. FRIEDA LANGENDORFF, the great contralto of the Metropolitan Opera, New York, and the Royal Operas of Berlin and Vienna, says:

May 1st, 1908.

I studied under the greatest masters wherever my professional life led me, but I found nowhere as clear and natural a course of tuition as Mme. de Rigaud uses in her lessons. In the many hours spent at her studio I have profited greatly by her thoroughly scientific method, and I am convinced that with her method of voice treatment she has corrected all kinds of faults in an incredibly short time, and also that she develops small voices so that they bloom out too large, individual and attractive ones. To all my young studying colleagues I wish to say that Madame de Rigaud's beautiful art of teaching has proven most helpful and valuable. [Translation.]

Mme. de Rigaud holds a number of equally strong and hearty endorsements from prominent singers, which will be furnished on application.

Tone Production and the Art of Singing

Artist Pupils in All the Leading Opera Houses

The Weigester Studios of Vocal Music

ROBERT S. WEIGESTER - - - - - Director
862-863 CARNEGIE HALL, NEW YORK

OFFER a complete education for the singer, and invite personal application or correspondence from those desiring the best in vocal instruction. Pupils accepted at any time between September 15th and June 30th.

In order to place the Weigester method of singing and teaching of singing within the reach of those who are unable to attend the regular winter sessions, a Summer Term of Six Weeks is held annually near Elmira, N. Y.

Eighth annual session of the Weigester Summer School will open July 20, 1914

This special course has been planned to cover the entire art of singing. This does not mean that a beginner in 6 weeks' time will become a finished singer, but that the entire ground of vocal study is covered by means of lecture, class and private instructions; the principles of correct tone-production are explained, and the qualifications of an artist are brought out, in order that the students may work intelligently by themselves during the time when they are away from an instructor.

Write to our New York address for Booklet C, which gives complete information about Winter and Summer Sessions and Rates.

Miss Anne Stevenson

Teacher of Singing

828 Carnegie Hall New York City

¶ Have you ever heard a singer whose speaking voice you considered beautiful, while you thought the singing voice somewhat harsh?
¶ That voice has not been properly trained from the beginning.
¶ Miss Stevenson has made a scientific study under Belari, the teacher of Madame Nordica, of the whole subject of breath control, muscular control, concentration of resonance, and the cultivation of mellowness of quality which gives the ideal tone to the voice.

Frederic Dixon

Teacher of Piano

JOSEFFY METHOD

828 Carnegie Hall New York City

¶ Mr. Dixon presents a quick, concise, scientific method for gaining perfect control of all the muscles of the arms and hands used in piano playing. This method gives independence of the fingers, and assures speed and clearness in scales, arpeggios, trills, octaves and chord passages, thus making it possible to play artistically and to perform the master pieces according to traditional interpretation, and to raise the general piano playing to a very high standard.

S. in 1865; began in 1876 as telegraph operator of the Gold and Stock and the Western Union Telegraph Cos.; removed to N. Y. City, 1880, and became identified with development of electric light industry in employ of the Edison Co., the U. S. Elec. Illuminating Co., Fuller Mf'g Co., etc.; returned to Baltimore, 1884, to devote attention to developing his inventions in electric signalling, railroading, controlling apparatus and illumination, organizing companies to push these inventions; among these being his well-known regulating socket, which was the first practicable device for "turning down" or controlling the light or candle power of incandescent electric lamps without the use of wasteful resistance, thereby placing the incandescent lamp on a par with gas. Also inventor and patentee of the modern alternating current or "converter" electric railway system, by which the limitations and restrictions of the 500-volt trolley systems were for the first time successfully overcome. The underlying principle of electric generation, transmission, conversion and distribution disclosed in these patents made possible the various rapid transit subways and tunnels now operating in N. Y. City, and the electrification of suburban and long distance steam railways now going on in the U. S. and other countries. His basic patents on this invention were finally adjudged in his favor after nearly 14 years litigation, and were purchased by the Westinghouse Elec and Mf'g Co. in 1903, on behalf of itself and the General Electric Co., then operating under the so-called Patent Pool arrangement. Has taken out over 200 patents on various pioneer inventions, many of which are in extensive use, some of the more notable being his method of electrically welding track rails, new processes of rivetting by electricity, underground electric railway conduit or sub-trolley system now used in New York and other large cities; methods and appliances for electric heating and cooking, telephone and telephonograph systems and apparatus, etc. Among others in general use are his basic patents on electric elevator controllers, etc., covering the method and apparatus adopted by the Otis Elevator Co. and others on their electric elevators, and for general motor starting and braking purposes. Invented and perfected an entirely new and very effective telephone system and apparatus, the patents on which were taken over by the United States Automatic Telephone Co. of N. Y. In 1912, following the sinking of the "Titanic" by collision with an iceberg, he applied for patents on a novel sound-detecting and registering system designed to prevent such disasters in future, and which also provides other important safeguards against the dangers of navigation. The following is a statement of its most important features:

1. The school is a high grade, standard college preparatory school, which seeks only those boys whose home life has laid the foundation for good character, manly conduct and good scholarship.

2. The school is situated in the most healthful region east of the Mississippi River, in a climate giving the largest opportunity for out-door life.

3. The grounds contain seven hundred acres of land, providing fields for games, ponds, streams, woods and hills. This land was selected not only with regard to its usefulness, but also for the beauty of its surroundings.

4. The playing fields contain 3 baseball diamonds, football field, ¼ mile running track, 9 tennis courts, golf course, gun traps (under the supervision of a master), and a rowing course ⅞ of a mile in length.

5. The gymnasium has 5 squash courts, 4 courts for basketball, and swimming pool, beside all the usual equipment.

6. The buildings were constructed especially for school purposes and are thoroughly sanitary.

7. The courses of study, though broad, are consistent, and give the best preparation to boys who desire to enter any college or technical school or to go into business.

8. The teachers are graduates of the best Northern colleges, chosen for their fitness to instruct and care for boys.

MME. BAYERLEE

Teacher of Singing

Telephone Morningside 3665 502 East 113th Street, New York

1. Is a specialist in voice placing as well as in interpretation; she has, moreover, a thorough knowledge of the human throat.
2. She possesses the rare gift of the "absolute pitch," a gift which cannot be overvalued in a teacher of singing. Not only is her own intonation exquisitely pure, but her fine, sensitive ear allows her to develop purity of intonation and beauty of tone in her pupils.
3. She plays a virtuoso accompaniment.
4. She has a broad culture outside of music, having studied painting, history, literature, and especially languages: German, English, French, Italian.
5. She has restored many a voice which seemed hopelessly injured by abuse, and developed voices where other teachers failed to find any.

Madame Bayerlee refers by permission to the following former pupils:

HOW TO BREATHE
HOW TO SIT HOW TO WALK
HOW TO STAND HOW TO TALK
HOW TO SING

BREATHING and physical exercises for health, for the proper use of the voice, poise of body and grace of carriage that ever mark the man or woman of culture and refinement.

Few know how to breathe, and yet breathing is the most important thing we do. Correct breathing will cure or prevent nervousness, indigestion, insomnia, asthma, tubercular conditions, baldness and excessive flesh.

The cultured man or woman must sit, stand, talk and walk correctly, and yet how few attain to these graceful conditions.

Any one who is not dumb may be taught to sing. Singing is the natural language of all human beings. Children sing little monotones before they learn to speak. Even the dumb hum discordant sounds in moments of revery.

We are the result of training in all things. The voice has simply been neglected, but stands now pleading for recognition.

Mme. Haggerty-Snell has never failed to develop a voice, regardless of age or talent. No one is too young or too old to improve the voice. Not all may become artists, but every one can be taught to sing artistically.

When radium was discovered was among the first in this country to procure some of it and investigate its properties; wrote small volume on Radium and Radioactivity. Authority on med. use of electricity, magnetism and radium. The N. Y. Mail (Nov. 19, 1910), speaking of Dr. Tracy's use of electricity, says: "Wonderful waves of wireless electric energy passing through solid brick walls are being used by Dr. Samuel G. Tracy for the successful treatment of nervous diseases and other ailments. Dr. Tracy used the ordinary street current, causing the 110 volts to pass from the wire through the air and into the room where he is operating. Here it is taken up by a transformer coil and converted into a smooth, painless and harmless current. An ordinary electric light socket was attached to the transmormed coil, the receiver being in another room and having an electric lamp attached. Instantly this lamp glowed, showing the current at work through the air and wall. Two sponge electrodes, when taken in the hands, gave the patient only a pleasant sensation, although the current was sufficiently powerful to light the lamp and illuminate the room. By this new method Dr. Tracy claims that a patient may be treated for nervous diseases with constantly increasing tonic results, while with stimulatory drugs the effect, he says, is momentary only. The remarkable part of the treatment is the harnessing of the electric waves without the aid of wires, and their transformation into harmless activity." Republican. Mem.
